His Annual Report to the President Is About Completed.

Secretary Herbert has about completed als annual report to the President. He did much of the work at his home, where he summoned bureau chiefs in consultation. He has gathered a mass of material in the shape of tabular statements, showing various expenditures and the needs of the the estimates over those of last year, especially in view of the condition of the especially in view of the condition of the machinery of warships and the construction plants at navy yards.

There has been for a number of years a false economy in allotments for this purpose, and the estimates have been materially reduced both in Congressional committees and on the facer of Congress. This has seriously handicapped the service, and there has been a rapid accumulation of repairs which cannot be undertaken until larger sums are available. lation of repairs which cannot be undertaken until larger sums are available.
Some of the vessels will require a good deal of overhauling, and the equipment of navy yard shops must be improved.

The Secretary will make some recommendations regarding the increase of the navy. He has not definitely decided to what extent he will suggest the increase, but it is understood that he will follow last year's plan and recommend additional battleships and torpedo hears.

He is likely to renew his recommendations in behalf of the line of the navy,
